

Efficient Energy Management for Senior Living Facilities

Titan Energy's senior living solutions improve operational efficiency, while reducing operational costs by freeing up procurement personnel from the task of crafting an effective energy management strategy. Titan's full service energy consultancy helps turn data into information you can use to control costs, identify trends and eliminate waste.

Senior Living Facilities Made More Efficient

Senior living facilities are facing challenges to increase resident satisfaction, reduce costs, and improve staff productivity. In addition, many are trying to reach sustainability goals while trying to safely transform resident care. Titan Energy is helping thousands of senior living facilities address these challenges across the United States.

As an independent energy consulting firm, Titan Energy has an in-depth knowledge of energy procurement and data management, demand-side management and onsite generation services operating in all competitive markets throughout the United States. Titan Energy creates comprehensive energy management strategies backed by data to control and reduce energy costs.

Senior living facilities need to control the energy costs on both sides of the utility bill, on the generation and supply of power plus the distribution of the power to their meters. In deregulated energy markets, Titan Energy helps senior living facilities match the best possible service and pricing to meet their unique needs. As an independent retail electricity and natural gas procurement firm we provide the most value to our clients by locking in the most competitive rates from the nation's leading suppliers.

To control the distribution side of your energy bill, Titan Energy is a renewable energy consultant and developer. As a trusted development partner to senior living facilities, we bring the necessary insight, guidance and financial support to help your on-site generation project reduce your energy costs. Titan understands incentives in each market and knows local contractors on the ground. TitanGen delivers best-in-class power creation and distribution technologies including, but not limited to, solar, fuel cell and combined heat and power.

There are financial incentives that senior living facilities can gain by managing their energy demand. To trim your energy usage and improve your building's operational efficiency, Titan provides energy efficiency solutions for healthcare and senior living facilities. With over 20 years of experience in the energy management industry, we identify non-disruptive ways to trim your energy usage and, ultimately, help your business run more efficiently. Titan Solutions guarantees turnkey solutions including lighting improvements, weatherization or boiler upgrades.

Increased Operational Efficiency

Free your business' financial and procurement personnel from the task of crafting an effective energy management strategy. Our process provides you with data that you can use to control costs, identify trends and eliminate waste. Titan takes all the guesswork out of organizing an RFP for energy procurement by understanding our clients needs and wants and present them with financial and energy solutions that make sense for them.

Improved Information Control

The free flow of energy-use data can be cumbersome. Facility managers can collect actionable data and continuously improve business processes. This capability enhances wellness, improves satisfaction, increases profitability and reduces the overall effect of potential disruption.

Reduction of Costs

Increase your bottom line with combined supply and demand-side cost reduction measures, implemented by energy professionals at no cost to you. Titan's team has an in-depth understanding of each U.S. energy market as well as local energy incentives that may be available.

Resident Satisfaction

State-of-the-art energy solutions also offer significant benefits for residents' health, safety and satisfaction. Residents stay more comfortable through properly maintained HVAC, and lighting controls and refrigeration controls. Many residents also report they are proud to live in a community that supports renewable energy.
